Summary

The dissemination activity to a wider public, including practitioners, undertaken for this project was to hold a public conference to publicise the results of the research. The workshop was funded by additional resources.

The conference was organised with the co-operation and generosity of the Centro di Studi Europei dello Sviluppo Locale e Regionale of the University of Florence (president prof Carlo Trigilia), and with the organisational assistance of Dr Luigi Burrioni of the Department of Social and Political Sciences of the University of Florence, who had also played a leading (unfunded) role in the research project.

It was held on 21 April at the Prato site of the University of Florence. Prato is a leading location for the textile and clothing industry of central Italy, where many of the ideas related to the development of public policy towards this sector were developed. It was therefore a particularly suitable location for an event on this topic.

The programme of the conference will be found below. All participants in the project were able to make presentations of the research except Dr Kamińska. Her research results were presented by Prof Crouch.

The conference was attended by about 200 people, including specialists in and students of local economic development of the University of Florence, and representatives of the textile industry of Prato and of the municipality.
